STARTLING FOREIGN OFFICE DISCLOSURES.

SOVIET APPEALS TO "BRITAIN'S RED ARMY."

London, October 24

The Foreign Office has issued the text of a letter it has to-day addressed to the Russian Charge d'Affaires drawing attention to a letter by M. Zinovieff, President of the Executive Committee of the Communist International and addressed to the Central Committee of the British Communist Party, "containing instructions to work for the violent overthrow of the existing institutions of Britain and the subversion of His Majesty's armed forces as a means to that end." The Foreign Office informs him that the Government cannot allow this propaganda and must regard it as a direct interference in British domestic affairs. It says that no-one who understands the constitution and relationships of the Communist International will doubt its intimate connection with the Soviet Government, and such conduct is not only a grave departure from the rules of international comity but a violation of specific and solemn undertakings repeatedly given.

The Foreign Office cites the agreement of June 4th, 1923, relative to propaganda and points out that the treaty recently concluded made still further provision for the faithful execution of an analogous undertaking. His Majesty's Government mean that these undertakings shall be carried out in the letter and spirit and cannot accept the contention that whilst the Soviet Government undertakes obligations, a political body, as powerful as itself, is to be allowed to conduct propaganda and support it with money, which is in direct violation of the official agreement. The Soviet Government either has or has not the power to make such arrangements. If it has the power it is its duty to carry them out and see that other parties are not deceived.

If it has not this power and if the responsibilities which belong to the State in other countries are, in Russia, in the keeping of private and irresponsible bodies, the Soviet Government ought not to make agreements which it knows it cannot carry out. Finally, the letter requests the observations of the Soviet Government on the matter without delay. The letter is signed "in the absence of the State Secretary" by J. D. Gregory.

AN INFLAMMATORY LETTER.

M. Zinovieff's letter which gave rise to the above protest, says that the majority of the British bourgeoisie are evidently against the Anglo-Russian Treaty. The proletariat of Britain, which pronounced its weighty word when the breakdown in past negotiations threatened and compelled the MacDonald Government to conclude the Treaty, must show the greatest possible energy in its further struggle for the ratification of the Treaty and against the endeavours of British capitalists to annul it. It is indispensable to stir up the masses of the British proletariat and bring into the movement an army of unemployed proletarians, whose position can be improved only after the loan has been granted to the Soviet Union for the restoration of her economies, and when the business collaboration between the British and Russian proletariats has been put in order. It is imperative that that group of the Labour Party sympathising with the Treaty should bring increased pressure to bear upon the Government and Parliamentary circles in favour of the ratification of the Treaty.

The letter goes on to declare that "the settlement of Anglo-Russian relations will assist in revolutionising the international and British proletariat, not less than a successful rising in any of the working districts of England, as the establishment of close contact between British and Russian proletariats, an exchange of delegations and workers, etc., will make it possible for us to extend and develop the propaganda of the ideas of Leninism in England and the Colonies. Armed warfare must be preceded by a struggle against the inclinations to compromise which are embodied among the majority of British workmen, against the peaceful extermination of capitalism. Only then will it be possible to count upon the complete success of armed insurrection. In Ireland and the Colonies the case is different as there is a national question, and this represents too great a factor of success for us to waste our time on the prolonged preparation of the working class."

TRADUCING ARMY AND NAVY.

The letter, which is dated September 16th, says:—"From your last report, evidently agitation and propaganda work in the Army is weak and in the Navy very little better." It suggests that "cells" should be established in all units and troops, particularly in large centres, and also in munition factories and military store depots. The latter should be given especial attention as in the event of danger by war, with the aid of the latter and in contact with transport workers, it would be possible to paralyse all the bourgeois military preparations and turn the imperialist into a class war. The letter suggests the formation of a group of military specialists to be the future directors of the British Red Army.

A further passage from the letter states:—"Go attentively through the lists of military 'cells,' detailing from them the more energetic and capable men to turn their attention to more talented military specialists, who have, for one reason or another, left the service and who hold socialist views. Attract them into the ranks of the Communist Party if they desire honestly to serve the proletariat and desire, in future to direct the national army and not be blind mechanical forces in the service of the bourgeoisie. Do not put this off to any future moment which may be pregnant with events and catch you unprepared."—Reuter.

QUESTIONS FOR THE ELECTORATE.

MR. BALDWIN'S IMPERIAL PREFERENCE.

London, October 24

Liberal headquarters have issued a statement replying to Mr. Baldwin's announcement with regard to Imperial preference, declaring the Conference last year showed that the only sort of preference which can meet their demands must have consequences which Mr. Baldwin has repudiated.—Reuter.

THE CAPITAL LEVY.

London, October 24

BIG FIRE.

LAST NIGHT'S PRAYA BLAZE.

Fire destroyed the entire building at No. 147 Connaught Road Central, (between the Harbour Office and the Macao Wharf) at an early hour this morning. The ground floor of the building, was occupied by the Lam Yung Brothers Tobacco Co. and the remaining floors were used to store oil. It is understood that the losses were partially covered by insurance.

The first alarm was turned in at 10:40 o'clock last night. When the fire brigade reached the scene the whole building was a mass of flames and their attention was directed to saving the adjoining property. Wreaths of heavy black smoke were issuing from the windows and it was not long before the roof and three upper floors caved in leaving only four walls and a few supporting timbers standing.

The Fire Brigade had difficulty in subduing the blaze due to the inability to get water into the seat of the flames which was near the back of the building. Eventually it was decided to pierce the rear wall from a building in Des Vieux-road, and it was then got under control. It proved to be molten soap that resisted so long.

The fire float assisted greatly by pumping sufficient water to flood the lower floors of the building thus keeping the fire from spreading.

Five lines of hose were laid from the Des Vieux Road side of the building and were played continuously from the footpath and one from a small window in the rear. All tram traffic along the western route was stopped and a huge crowd gathered to watch the Brigade fight the flames. The Boy Scouts turned out in force and rendered valuable assistance in controlling the crowds and relieving the firemen with the hose.

No lives were lost, though spectators say that it was only due to the promptitude of action on the part of the Fire Brigade that saved the Chinese tenements on either side of the burning building from suffering a similar fate. As it was the roofs of the adjoining houses were damaged by small fires started by embers from the burning building.

The "Stop" signal was sent through at 1:20 a.m. but the appliances did not return to their stations until nearly daylight.

The damage caused has been estimated at $38,500. Only the goods on the ground floor, comprising kerosene and sundry articles of export, and those on the first floor were covered by insurance, the amount effected being $30,000.

ANOTHER CALL.

Hardly had the Brigade gone back to the Station when another call came through, this time the fire being at No. 189 Queen's Road West. Sparks from a furnace had set fire to a quantity of tea-leaves that were being dried over the fire. The alarm was given at six o'clock this morning and a few minutes later the Brigade arrived. Their prompt arrival averted a big outbreak. Very little damage was done.

END OF CHINA'S WAR IN SIGHT.

WU PEI-FU'S NEW "POST"

TAO KUN SUDDENLY DECIDES THAT WAR SHOULD CEASE.

Peking, October 24

President Tao Kun has issued a mandate ordering the immediate cessation of hostilities and dismissing Wu Pei-fu from his post, appointing him "Chief Commissioner for the development of Kokonor," which is a large salt-water lake in north east Tibet, directing both the Chihliites and Mukdenites to remain in status quo; and instructing Wang Cheng-fu, the Civil Governor of Chihli, to take charge of the troops at Shanhaikwan.—Reuter.

MARSHAL WU FLEES.

The communique adds that Wu Pei-fu is in full flight, and the retreat of the Central Government armies at Shanhaikwan has been cut off.

It asserts that President Tao Kun has taken refuge in the Legation quarter of Peking.—Reuter.

GEN. FENG'S STRONG POSITION.

Peking, Oct. 25

The remainder of Gen. Feng Yu-hsiang's troops have reached Peking, also fifteen thousand of Hu Chung-shan's forces, giving Gen. Feng a total command of upwards of forty thousand men.

Perfect order has been maintained hitherto, and not a single shot has been fired during the after coup. It is noteworthy that Feng's proclamations do not mention several leaders who are reported to be participating in his movement.

A further proclamation this morning concludes as follows: He must request the President to issue a mandate ordering the cessation of hostilities.

The Cabinet is nominally carrying on under Premier Yen, to whom Gen. Feng apparently looks for avoidance of interruption of Government business.

The Presidential bodyguard, consisting of three thousand troops, was disbanded last night. While numerous rumours in this connection are being circulated, there is reason to believe that Tao Kun is still in his Presidential mansion. No further arrests are reported.

The interruption of communications has left Peking entirely in the dark regarding Wu Pei-fu. It is reported semi-officially that some Fengion leaders are carrying out a similar coup at Mukden, but it is impossible to confirm these.—Reuter.

WU'S PUNISHMENT ORDERED.

Peking, later.

The Minister of Finance was not arrested yesterday. The police mistakenly arrested his brother, who was subsequently released.

The report of the disarming of Tao Kun's guard was apparently premature. It seems that Gen. Feng requested Tao Kun to issue two mandates, the first one ordering a cessation of hostilities, and the other ordering the punishment of Wu Pei-fu. Tao Kun agreed to the former but declined the latter, and Feng is taking measures to secure compliance.

All remains quiet in Peking.—Reuter.

DE VALERA AGAIN ARRESTED.

ATTEMPTS TO ADDRESS MEETING IN ULSTER.

London, October 24

The Irish Republican leader Eamon De Valera was arrested in the vestibule of the town hall at Newry, Ulster, to-night, in the act of entering a meeting to speak in support of the Republican candidate, in defiance of the Ulster authorities.

This arrest is a sequel to a day-long watch by contingents of constabulary armed with revolvers, rifles, bayonets and truncheons, guarding every possible approach to the town, in view of De Valera's announced intention to speak.—Reuter.

TO-DAY.

Closing Exchange 2s. 5, 3/16
Lighting Up-Time 5.51 p.m.

The almost indecent haste with which the youth of Great Britain discard one thing for another will cause a public scandal unless prompt measures are taken to draw their fangs and thus nip them in the bud. I more particularly refer to the reprehensible practice of shilling, scabbing about before cricket season. It is tantamount to consuming the funeral, bake-meats are the old gentleman upstairs has breathed his last, a soleism which even the most case-hardened murderer would hesitate to commit.

Last Saturday afternoon, we (that is, my Club, the Battersea Bingers) were playing the concluding match of the season against the team of the local branch of the Good Tipplers' Association on our village green. I was holding third longestop—my usual place—and was about to effect a catch that would have won the match for us, when some muddled old kicked a football just between my fountain-pen and my watch, with the result that the ball went to the boundary for four, and I went to the Ambulance-tent for artificial respiration.

Yet another inventor claims to have discovered a process which renders glass absolutely unbreakable. I simply won't believe it until:

- (i) my Mary Jane has had a go at it;
- (ii) a specimen has safely survived transit through our Parcel Post.

A few weeks ago (readers will probably remember) the announcement was made that a Japanese professor had discovered a powder, made from fish, which, taken internally, would increase a person's stature. I promptly wrote to write my friend, Dr. Bulky Stodger, the famous dietitian and Professor Erraticus of Yell University, Connecticut (whose biography appears this week) asking him for his observations on the matter. Just to hand is his reply, in which he states that for years he has been experimenting, to a similar end, with a powder made from Limburger cheese. The patient, however, is required, not to swallow the powder, but to smell it, the effort to escape the effluvia resulting in an elongation of the neck varying from a few inches to a couple of feet. So successful has my friend's treatment proved that one patient on leaving the clinic, was mistaken for an ostrich, and was much harassed by people groping beneath his coat-tails to look for plumes. But as the eminent medico rightly pointed out to him, he couldn't have it both ways.

Brothers of the bride at a North London wedding last week were a soldier, a sailor, and a policeman. Their presence, of course, made it practically impossible for the bridegroom to escape.

I received quite a shock the other day. Having nothing else in particular to do I bought a dog—only with a very long nose and very short legs—a trifle—hound I think. On going to the Post Office to take out a license

I was dreadfully disappointed to find that I didn't have to fill up a form with a number in the corner like a quadratic equation. I had eagerly anticipated receiving

Form No. 86521 (a) P.M.G./D.L. 1337 (ii) 98542, and being required to fill in something to this effect:—

- (1) Name of dog. (To be written in block capitals.)
- (2) State, if dog's parents living. If dead, state cause of death.
- (3) Has dog ever suffered from rabies, roup, croup, staggers, glanders, rickets, clergyman's sore throat, or swine fever?
- (4) Is it strictly sober and temperate?
- (5) Has it ever had a license previously? If so, was such license ever endorsed?
- (6) Give the names and addresses of two other dogs willing to act as referees.
- (7) State precisely whether you require license merely for listening to dog, or for experimental purposes.

It was awfully tame simply handing over the money and getting a receipt. I've got more fun out of trying to register a picture-postcard.

It is stated that the amount of pure ozone used in the Tube railways is one part to two million parts of air. As a constant traveller on the Tubes may I respectfully request that any visitor encountering this one part of pure ozone will not sniff it all up?

As remarked in another paragraph, this week's biography is that of IV. Bulky Stodger, M. D., M. R. C. V. S., R. S. V. P., &c., &c.

Hatched 1852. Received first instruction in medicine from Dr. Beecham, Dr. Gregory, Dr. Carr-Stroyle, and later, in Vienna, from Prof. Staubersaltz. On qualifying, determined to specialise in dietetics, and went (1882) to America to study at first hand the food-values of clam chowder and canvas-backed terrapin. Accepted post of Professor Erraticus of Yell University, Connecticut (1884), offered him in recognition of his able monograph in defence of the pork and-beans-canning industry, published (1889) under the title, I felt no foe in shining Armour. Received the Order of the Bottlenosed Jellyfish, with two knobs, for his researches into the nutritive value of spear-mint if left on the bedpost overnight. Published works include The Vitamin's Dream of Homer (1892); Botulism or Bolshevism? (1895); The Diet of Worms; a Digest of the Effect on Martin Luther (1900); Do Haricot Beans cause Varicose Veins? ROYAL HONGKONG YACHT CLUB.

A SUCCESSFUL YEAR.

Capt. T. Arthur, the acting Commodore, presided yesterday at the annual meeting of the Royal Hongkong Yacht Club. There was a good number of members present, and the following Committee members: Commodore Grace, Messrs E. W. Carpenter, H. S. Rouse, D. H. Blake, D. C. Logan, R. C. Moneriff and Mr. A. Ritchie (Hon. Treas.).

In proposing the adoption of the report and accounts, the Chairman said they all regretted the absence of Mr. D. K. Blair, the Commodore. It had been his privilege to endeavour to fill his place since he left. However, he was not without hope of seeing him in the chair on a future occasion.

He had to mention the absence of two very old members of the Club, both of whom served as Commodore, the late Mr. Frank Smyth and the late Hon. Mr. A. R. Lowe. Such men as these were not easily replaced, and in them the Club had lost two of its most generous and valued members.

The past season had been one of the most successful in the history of the Club. It was worthy of note that only two nights ago four of their oldest members were seen returning from a cruise in the dusk, one of their number stating that it was his first time at the club for fourteen years (Laughter).

Season's Activities.

The report of the Sailing Committee showed that the boat owners had a most interesting and varied programme of events to sail off during the season and the racing was full of interest from start to finish. The ladies races were distinctly popular and were very keenly contested, and it was hoped that as all classes of boats were to be sailed by them this coming season, a record entry would be forthcoming.

It would be the duty of the incoming Committee to arrange for the Macao Race for a cup promised by Mr. G. H. Potts, and he had seen a letter from Shanghai suggesting an Interport race with the members of the Royal.

The Rowing Section of the Club was in a very flourishing condition, and the all round average of rowing in the various events competed for during the season showed unmistakable improvement.

The Bowling Section was also going strong and its popularity increasing. It had been suggested that in future the monthly subscription of a dollar which the bowling members pay in addition to the Club fees be discontinued, and this he recommended for the consideration of the new committee (Applause).

He expressed thanks and appreciation for all the valuable services rendered by various members in the carrying out of the Club's activities and affairs.

Commodore Grace.

The Chairman thanked Mr. Ritchie and Mr. Rouse for their strenuous work as secretaries during the last year. Mr. Ritchie, owing to pressure of other work, was giving up the secretaryship, but he had kindly offered himself again as treasurer.

There was one other, that himself as acting Commodore and the Committee and members of the Club wished to thank, and that was Commodore Grace. He would not be with them much longer and as he had, since being a member of the Club, identified himself with all sport in a cheerful and energetic manner, he thought it was up to them to have their appreciation recorded at that meeting. (Applause).

He thanked, on behalf of the Committee and members of the Club, the two gentlemen who so kindly audited the accounts.

The Chairman then opened the subject of the election of a Rear-Commodore for the Club. He considered it a good thing if the Articles of Association permitted it. The Club had grown a great deal and really needed another flag officer—and of course another cup. (Laughter).

Commodore Grace then proposed that Capt. Arthur be elected Commodore for the coming year. Capt. Arthur was well known and there was no need for his virtues to be mentioned; they had all seen how efficient he was.

The motion was seconded by Mr. S. T. Williamson and carried unanimously.

Replying, Capt. Arthur said it gave him great pleasure to accept the honour and he esteemed it a great privilege to serve the Club.

EARLIER TELEGRAMS.

THE COMING ELECTIONS.

London, Oct. 24. Mr. Baldwin received an enthusiastic send-off at Euston on his departure on a tour of Scotland and North England lasting till polling day. He sent as a message to his supporters the words of his old school song, "Piny up you fellows, piny up." Mrs. Baldwin sent a message to the women, "Work to keep Britain for the British."

Mr. Macdonald in a speech at Cwmados declared that the Liberals had sold themselves and unless Labour was returned to Parliament in full force, the country was going into the hands of dangerous reaction which would affect the whole of Europe. There was not only the danger of protection but the danger to international peace, the budget, etc. The country would be running a grave risk if the Conservatives were returned.—Reuter.

GERMAN POLITICS.

Berlin, Oct. 24. Herr Hergt has resigned the leadership of the Nationalist party as a result of the campaign of the extreme wing, which is enraged at the failure to secure entry into the Cabinet. The German Nationalist directorate has entrusted Herr Winkler, a member of the Prussian diet with the leadership, and elected Admiral Von Tirpitz a member of the directorate.—Reuter.

THE NEW CABLESHIP.

London, Oct. 24. The cable-ship Cable is leaving for Singapore on the 25th, she is fitted with all the latest devices and has a carrying capacity of 500 miles of cable, a speed of twelve knots and a range of 6,000 miles. She is capable of repairing faults in a few hours.—Reuter.

GERMAN MUNITION SHIP.

Durban, Oct. 24. The German munition ship Nordmark recently seized by the Customs has been released and is leaving for Batavia without a portion of her cargo. The utmost secrecy is being maintained regarding the ship and her cargo and her ultimate release.—Reuter.

THE NOBEL PRIZES.

Stockholm, Oct. 24. The Nobel Prize for Medicine and Physiology for 1924 has been awarded to Professor Willem Einthoven, of Leyden University.—Reuter.

THE EMPIRE EXHIBITION.

Capetown, Oct. 24. The Government of the Union of South Africa has decided not to participate in the Wembley Exhibition of 1925.—Reuter.

He assured members that as far as he was concerned the interests of the Club would always be looked after. (Applause).

Officers Elected.

The following officers were then elected:

Vice Commodore.—Mr. E. W. Carpenter; Rear-Commodore, Mr. A. L. Shields.

Yachting Committee.—Commodore Grace, Capt. A. Davidson, Messrs. H. S. Rouse, E. Cook, N. Croucher, L. Quist, P. M. Hodgson and H. L. Adams.

Rowing Committee.—Capt. Faulcett, Messrs. D. C. Logan, R. L. Moneriff, O. Eager, Forsyth, and Dr. P. P. Minott.

Bowling Committee.—Messrs G. R. Edwards and S. T. Williamson.

Mr. A. W. Fiddle was appointed Hon. Secretary and Mr. A. Ritchie Hon. Treasurer. On the proposition of Mr. D. C. Logan a vote of thanks to Mr. Ritchie, for his past services, was passed and recorded on the minutes.

The Handicapping Problem.

On the meeting being opened to general discussion, Mr. A. H. Shields raised several yachting matters. He proposed that there be a Handicapping Committee appointed, which could be made up of the Commodore and Vice Commodore, the Sailing Secretary and one owner from each of the classes. Protests, he continued, was a vexed question. A good many who took up sailing had not had a great deal of experience and year after year they had the same difficulties arising, and he wished to suggest that a record of protests and rulings on them be kept for reference. The same points constantly came up and former decisions would be of interest and assistance.

Mr. H. S. Rouse said he was certain the Sailing Committee would welcome the appointment of a Handicapping Committee. He knew the Sailing Secretary would. (Laughter). As it was a member's boat was given a handicap and he would immediately ask whether the Secretary thought his boat was the Shamrock. (Laughter). He agreed with the protest suggestion, and thought it could be arranged to keep a record of them and the findings.

The matter was referred to the incoming Committee.

GRUSOME PAPER WEIGHT

The Chicago police are investigating the origin of a letter urging the hanging of Leopold and Loeb, who are alleged to have murdered the boy Frank. The letter was found on the steps of the house of a wealthy neighbor of the Loeb family. On it were placed—apparently as a paper-weight—a human leg bone resting between crossed arm bones and a human skull on top. The bones were those of a woman and were provided with metal tags, giving rise to the belief that they have come from a medical school. The missive read: "If the Court does not hang them, we will," and was signed "K. K. K."—the abbreviation of Ku Klux Klan.

PRINCE FAULTS TO "DRESS."

"Eligibles" Give up in Despair.

The disciples of Dame Fashion have not recovered from the flagrant violation of her precepts as willfully and publicly committed by the Prince of Wales on his recent trip to the United States says an American contemporary. Great Britain's future king appeared in the dining saloon of the liner Boregaria attired in street dress. To say that the hundreds of matrons and maids who had gathered to see the "sporting Prince" make his entry were amazed is conveying but a slight idea of the consternation which was created among those of the liner's first class travellers.

Solomon in all his glory did not equal the majority of women between 14 and 84 years of age who, resplendent with fine raiment and sparkling jewels, dalled at dinner until 8.30 that night when the Prince was scheduled to appear.

The demi-tasse stage had long been reached and everyone was all set to see the Prince and his entourage set up a new standard in natty attire, but lo! they were doomed to disappointment.

Word was passed about that the British heir was approaching. When the doors to the upper saloon were pushed open the "little Britisher," dressed in a common everyday street suit, led his party to the elaborately decorated table placed for his exclusive use. He staged no dress parade for his admirers. He didn't even give them a glance and the many "eligibles" in the crowd failed to get their expected thrill.

The Prince didn't even like the gay table set up for him, as after a hasty perusal of the line-up he took his party to a small side table, much to the consternation of the ship stewards and the amusement of his watchers. While seemingly in excellent health, the prince showed signs of weariness and annoyance over the dozens of pairs of eyes glued on his every move. After dinner he pulled nervously at a cigarette and then suddenly rose and led his party to a secluded lounge where they remained until 11, while anxious dowagers and their daughters breathed silent prayers for his appearance in the ballroom where dancing was in progress.

The Prince finally appeared in the ballroom door, nearly disrupting the morale of the sundry fox-trotters but after a few minutes disappeared in the direction of the imperial suite. The expectant, hopeful light which had appeared in the feminine eyes at his appearance was again replaced by one of disappointment and the ballroom was soon deserted.

AMERICAN FOREIGN POLICY.

President Coolidge's final election speech, a condensation of which was received through Reuter yesterday, is of more than ordinary interest by reason of the fact that the foreign policy of the United States is intimately bound up with the result of the election, and because America's foreign policy is of vital interest to Great Britain and other European countries. When President Coolidge promises co-operation with other nations in the interest of peace, so long as the independence of the United States is not jeopardised, we wonder just what he means. Ever since the late President Wilson made the great mistake of his life in not being frank with his Cabinet and Senate on the question of the League of Nations Covenant, America has been extremely shy regarding entry into international politics, and the idea seems to have taken root in America that that country can participate in promoting international peace without being a party to any of the covenants, treaties, or other agreements in writing necessary to define the intention of the covenanting parties. There is some grave fear that American independence will be damaged if the United States signs anything. The League of Nations is looked upon almost as though it were a sinister organisation out to cramp the individuality of its member nations, and there is a dread of discussion on any country's "domestic affair." The United States prefers to stand outside all these things and yet it so often expresses its desire to further international concord.

To our mind that is an extremely paradoxical attitude to adopt. Great Britain's freedom of action is in no-wise impaired by its membership of the League of Nations, except that it is forbidden to wage aggressive warfare. And it would be better if all and every nation were forbidden in like manner. Great Britain's independence is not one whit jeopardised and never could be, so long as its people had will to remain free, and there is no risk that any purely domestic affair of our's would be made the subject of an international conference. We admit that there possibly could arise a contingency in which what we regarded as a domestic problem was regarded by other nations as having an effect beyond our domestic range, but machinery is definitely provided for deciding such a point. American fears have, we think, been magnified and are largely being made an excuse for keeping clear of the international tangle presented by the problem of disorganised Europe. But, surely it must be recognised that in order to have an effective voice in the discussion of any problem a map or a nation must be in the circle of those conducting the debate. To stand on one side and offer shrewdly gratuitous advice is to lessen one's influence considerably. Britain has not joined the League of Nations because she wishes to become embroiled in any further warfare but because she believes that by occupying a seat at a conference table, especially where the decisions of that conference have a binding power, she will assist the coming of the day when nations will put aside warfare and take to the arbitrament of reason. A beginning has to be made somewhere, and if all nations stood aside we should be back to the position where none of them cared very much.

The American psychology on foreign affairs is a little hard to understand. She desires so much; she will associate so little. The pose of superiority is not the one most calculated to inspire cordiality, and America must one day get down to the level of her fellow nations and join in with them in trying to settle the problem of their relationships. The world of nations will never become a happy family with the huskiest member always outside on the porch whilst the others are inside the house.

Election Rowdies.

The marked campaign of rowdism directed against Conservative and Liberal candidates for election is not a matter for surprise. One can always expect some of these incidents, and so far as this election is concerned one can expect worse rowdism than usual owing to the temper of the people. An unfortunate feature about the working classes in Britain lately has been the proportion of persons with "Red" tendencies, and to these a Labour victory at the polls spells the goal of all their ambitions. They expect to get some most wonderful things out of a powerful Labour Government, and do not perhaps realise that they would be disappointed were any Labourites to take office. Anyhow, the idea in their heads is that all opponents of the Labour party are enemies of the worst type. We can quite believe that many of the agitators are of "alien appearance," as the Reuter message terms it, but this does not necessarily imply that they are Russians specially engaged for the work. The reading public would want further proofs than mere appearances. Nobody looks more like the traditional Bolshevik than a long-out-of-work tramp. Neither is it safe to conclude that the official Labour party is at the bottom of the rowdism now being experienced. At the same time one can quite understand the Labour candidates being rather pleased at this assistance given their cause by the hooligan elements. Not that we think ourselves that the rowdies are helping Labour at all—possibly they will end by disgusting the better type of working people, and lead to a determination by the other classes to keep Labour out at any cost. All the same it is an indication of the very ugly temper of the lower elements, many of them justifiably incensed by the failure of the promises of unemployment relief. It may be presumed that they do not realise how much the recent Ministry has been responsible for the continuance of this sorry state of affairs.

Change Of View.

Another reason for the determined backing of Conservative and Liberal candidates must be

DAY BY DAY.

ADMONITION MUST DESOEND, AS THE DEW UPON THE TENDER HERB, OR LIKE MELTING FLAKES OF SNOW; THE SOFTER IT FALLS, THE LONGER IT DWELLS UPON AND THE DEEPER IT SINKS INTO THE MIND.—Secd.

The Government is inviting tenders for the construction of two steel twin screw Patrol Vessels for the Hongkong Government. The Principal Dimensions for each vessel are:—Length overall 111ft. 6ins. Breadth moulded 18ft. 6ins. Depth moulded 8ft. 6ins. Engines to be Semi-Diesel.

Cabled intimation has reached Singapore of the death on October 10th, at Crieff, Perthshire, of Mr. James Henderson Drysdale, who had spent more than forty years of his life in and about Singapore. His death followed a long period of ill-health. Mr. Drysdale, who was in his 76th year, went to Singapore when he was 21 years of age, and later served for 15 years as chief engineer on various steamers on the China coast. He afterwards joined the United Engineers and remained with them for 28 years. For health reasons he was compelled to leave Singapore in 1919. One of Mr. Drysdale's daughters is at present in Kuala Lumpur, and a son is an engineer on the marine staff of the Eastern Extension Telegraph Company at Singapore. Another daughter is in Scotland, and a younger son was a Volunteer killed in the Singapore mutiny in 1915.

the fear that Labour is going to suffer a big defeat—big in the way of failure to realise the grandiose dreams of various advocates of a socialist administration. There is no longer the ring of confidence in his statements which characterised the speeches of Mr. Ramsay MacDonald on the opening of the campaign. At the same time, the other parties, particularly the Conservatives, are more optimistic, or if nervous, they are concealing the feeling admirably. The most peculiar, and probably a very significant, change has been shown by Mr. MacDonald, and it has not seemed what one expected of him. The only conclusion is that he is apprehensive of defeat, despite all the lip confidences of his utterances. At the time when the older parties were impeaching Labour in the House of Commons, the Premier accused the Liberals of being crooked in their dealings, and unfair to the Labour Government, and at the same time he gave the Conservatives a pat on the back for their straight action. If this was a political move, it failed. When the Liberal amendment to the vote of censure was upheld by the Conservatives, it became apparent that Labour would have to stand alone in the conflict. Now we have Mr. MacDonald accusing Conservatism of being the implacable and unscrupulous foe of the Labourites, and appealing for Liberal support. This attempt to play one party off against another is not dignified, to say the least, and one cannot but presume that the Premier sees the chances of his party dwindling as the days of the campaign go by.

MOTORING SUPPLEMENT

THE HONGKONG TELEGRAPH.

SATURDAY the 25th. October, 1924

(Being the Official Organ of the Hongkong Automobile Association.)

LOCAL MOTOR NOTES & NEWS

Postponed from the previous Saturday on account of the weather, the final stage of the motor cycle speed judging competition was completed on Saturday last.

On the Kowloon run of the fifteen competitors who started only two, who curiously enough happened to be riding Harley Davidson machines failed to complete the course. One competitor A. Gascon, Harley combination, had extremely rough luck in that he worked the whole of his hour's stop at Castle Peak to repair a puncture; checked out to time, and punctured again at the foot of Lai Chi Kok Hill. The other competitor A. Terry—Harley combination took the wrong road.

The riding of the competitors was of a good standard, and with a little more practice and more careful attention to running to time the finish would have been closer.

On the Hongkong run all the competitors who started finished the course. Four competitors who completed the Kowloon run failed to start in the Hongkong run. A. Rumjahn being in hospital owing to a spill a few days previously, and A. Woolley also being on the sick list. Chaney did not appear, it being understood that he had forgotten to buy another mount that week. Suen was called away from the Colony on business.

The first test consisted of stopping and restarting on the steep part of Shauiwan Hill. Most of the competitors did well at this, especially Meunier, being closely followed by Woodward and Ewan.

In the brake test on Sai Wan Hill, Woodward did extremely well, assisted by a little careful thought and gear changing. H.S. Komor's pull up was easily the best of the afternoon—a good pull up from a fairly fast pace with no skidding. Meunier and Kow also did well here.

From the brake test the competitors proceeded to Repulse Bay where they were checked in and taken to a matched where a most excellent tea was provided.

Checking out after an hour's wait at Repulse Bay the competitors had an uneventful run home, there being one secret check on the way. This check was taken to break ties, but as there were none, the times were not considered. The timekeeping of the competitors was much better on the Hongkong run than Kowloon, but a little more attention to close running to schedule would have helped most of the competitors. Contrary to a previous erroneous report the Harley Davidson machine was ably represented and with a little more luck and better timekeeping would have secured the trophy.

The committee wish to thank all their helpers especially Mr. O. H. Wilson who kindly placed his car and matched at the disposal as well as his personal services, also Mr. E. Bell and Mr. G. Saunders who gave their services as checkers. The results are given on another page.

An editorial comment in The World's Carriers, an English monthly record of the carrying trades of the World, is scarcely flattering to motor cyclists. It deals with the report of the Departmental Committee on the Taxation and Regulation of Road Vehicles, and takes exception to the suggestion that motor cycles should have a prior claim over trade vehicles in matter of reduction of taxation. We wonder what Hongkong motor cyclists will have to say for themselves in defence of the following indictment which we quote from the article in question:—

"We cannot think of anything more iniquitous than this suggestion because we know of no vehicle on the road less desirable and of less service to the community than the motor cycle. Of all road nuisances it is the greatest, and undoubtedly the great majority of its riders are the youth of the country whose time and money could well be spent to better advantage. In the hands of these young men the motor cycle is a far noisier vehicle than any other on the road."

We understand that the Committee of the Automobile Association have now approved of an Empire Supernumerary Membership of 10s. 6d. per annum and members and prospective members are, therefore, able to effect a considerable saving. Naturally when the member arrives in England he comes under the full scale of charges.

A VETERAN ON PARADE.

Legionnaires from Curitiba, Wis., entered this old bus in the contest to determine the oldest car driven to the American Legion convention in St. Paul. With steel lamps for headlights and a Cognac barrel for a gas tank, they made the trip to the convention city under their own power.

"BALLOON" TYRES.

HOW THE NAME HAS ARISEN.

Now that balloon tyres have taken their place in the motor world and the word "balloon," as applied to tyres, has become a part of the language, it is interesting to note that the first announcement ever made of the new tyre was given to the world only fourteen months ago, and that that first announcement gave it the name that has since clung to it.

On March 10, 1923, there appeared in Automobile Topics, a leading publication in the motor field, an article written by S. P. Thatcher, now Technical Director of the Tyre Manufacturing Department, United States Rubber Company, which settles once for all any controversy that might arise as to how the name originated.

The article reads in part as follows:—

"In order to provide greater cushioning for passenger cars the United States Tyre Company has let it be known that cord tyres, large in section and having very thin carcasses, have been substituted for the present conventional sizes with very remarkable results in experiments now being carried on.

"The name 'balloon' tyres has already been applied to equipment of this description, recalling to some of the old-timers the early days of the bicycle, when pneumatic tyres first came into existence and were so termed, 'to distinguish them from the solid and cushion tyres then in common use.' It is made clear that much work remains to be done before 'supertires' will be available to the public. The experiments with them are divulged at this time only as a matter of general interest.

"This experiment represents an extension of the pneumatic principle in a logical direction and brings the tyre much nearer the engineer's ideal—a tyre as 'flexible as a soap bubble and as strong as steel.'

When Mr. Thatcher applied the name 'balloon' to the new type of tyre it was with no thought that the name would be permanently adopted. As a matter of fact, a much more satisfactory name have been devised, such as 'low-pressure.' But the name stuck and has been officially adopted by tyre manufacturers.

A pedestrian, as a Massachusetts judge ruled, is not obliged legally to jump out of the path of a motor-car, but it sounds like a good time to waive his rights.—Wall Street Journal.

SPEEDING UP TRAFFIC.

AUTHORITIES CHANGE THEIR POLICY.

Traffic authorities in America are finally coming to realize the wisdom of a singular change in their traffic laws.

That is, a change from slower to faster traffic in congested districts and during heavy traffic hours.

It is an anomaly in safety regulation, a direct departure from the practice of keeping the speed of vehicles down, the more congested the area the lower the speed.

Now, after years of study and practice, police officials and other students of traffic find that the move to avoid congestion. Instead of falling prey to the difficulty of congested traffic, they have finally decided to take the bull by the horns and cure that bugaboo itself.

The cure is the speeding of traffic laws.

LAW "BROKEN."

Automobiles are permitted to go through safety zones, instead of around them. They may pass street cars at discrete distances, in congested districts, while the car is taking on or discharging passengers. And at some points in certain cities, automobiles are directed to pass street cars to the left.

All to speed up—rather than slow up—traffic.

Besides breaking old traffic regulations authorities are seeking more permanent means of solving the congestion problem. They are widening streets, providing more one-way streets, eliminating bottle needs, installing the block signal system and controlling parking more thoroughly.

"GANGWAY"

The boulevard stop plan is one of the newest methods to rush drivers downtown in the morning and back home of the evening. Many cities now prohibit driving directly into a main street, and provide a fine or imprisonment unless every motorist stops before entering or crossing a street.

There have been cases also of arresting drivers who traffic police thought were going too slow. And there have been suggestions for additional regulations among which one would prohibit the use of congested streets by inexperienced drivers.

In New York another suggestion has been made by which no auto would be permitted downtown with less than three passengers. This would keep many auto owners from driving to business alone, or even being driven down by their chauffeurs. It would mean the use of one vehicle where two or more previously had been taken out.

IMPORTS ONLY CHASSES.

Australia imports only chasses, as the Commonwealth is well able out of its own timber resources, to manufacture all the coachwork it needs. The value of the chasses imported from Great Britain by the Commonwealth is increasing with each succeeding year. In 1921 it was £235,745; in 1922, £279,386; in 1923, £560,889, and for the first three months of the present year, £125,552, which shows a substantial increase on the corresponding periods of the two previous years.

Genuine Balloon Tyres

Standard Equipment

The addition of balloon tires gives a final note of distinction and luxurious riding comfort to the mechanical superiority and notable performance of today's Essex.

Its advantage of price and value is more marked than ever.

Economy and performance are better. More accessible for replacements or repairs, which means less maintenance expense. Essex tires are genuine, full-sized balloons. And with lower center of gravity and unique spring arrangement they give greater safety and comfort on all roads at all speeds.

To all you know of Essex reputation is added the confidence that it is built by the Hudson Motor Car Company, on the famous Hudson patents.

ASBESTOS FOR BRAKES.
 Annual consumption of asbestos for brake linings is estimated at 70,000,000 feet, of which only 15,000,000 feet are in new cars. United States holds first place in manufacture of asbestos products. Yet it produces only one per cent of the total output of raw material.

MOSTLY MINOR ILLS.
 Most of the troubles with cars are of such minor importance that the owner himself could correct them if taken in hand at once, say engineers at the Automotive Testing Laboratories in Chicago. This is said to be especially true in case of electrical trouble.

Carry a piece of tough canvas in your tool box. In an emergency it makes an excellent patch when doubled twice and caught and held by the rim.

When cleaning mud from radiator with a hose, apply the water from inside the hood, never from outside.

DRIVING ABILITY.

BY ERNEST G. GARLAND,
 TECHNICAL MANAGER
 CADILLAC MOTOR CAR COMPANY.

The inexperienced driver arriving for the first time in hilly regions is prone to think that "putting the car over the road" at a high speed covers all the rules for demonstrating driving ability. Good driving with due regard for engine and brakes, and conducting to long life of the car, means much more.

When a car is pulling steadily uphill, it is natural for the driver to think chiefly of the engine which is performing the hard task. As it tops the summit and begins the steep descent, it is equally natural for him to change his mental picture and think only of the brakes. So the inexperienced driver, seeing ahead of him a stretch of roadway sloping downward, usually shifts his muscular movement to this mental shift and transfers his foot from the accelerator to the brake pedal.

But, as most drivers know, and as those who do not know should learn, this is not always good driving, nor safe driving. Stopping a car on a ten per cent down-grade at a given speed is, of course, a greater load upon brakes than stopping on a level at the same speed. Yet, in cars with adequate braking systems, properly adjusted, it is not merely a question of being able to stop. We are talking about good driving, about using our transportation unit with due regard to long life and economical maintenance.

What, then, is wrong in the practice of controlling speed on a steep down-grade with brakes only?

If one had on his farm or at his summer home a fifty-foot waterfall over which 4000 pounds of water passed every minute, the amount of water-power would certainly justify an attempt to use it. Now, an automobile descending a ten per cent grade at 20 miles per hour, drops 176 feet every minute. In doing so, one of the weight of a Cadillac car, for example, develops over three times as much power as our imaginary water fall; over 21 horse power to be exact.

What becomes of this power? A small fraction only is necessary to overcome the friction of the tires on the road and of the axle and wheel bearings. Something must absorb the remainder.

It is natural to think of the brakes for this purpose; but let us see. One would not expect on a level road to open the throttle, at the same time apply brakes to hold the car speed down to 20 miles per hour, and drive in this manner for a mile more. Such practice, which anyone would certainly call abuse, would demand no more of the brakes than using them alone to control the car while descending a long, steep grade.

What, then, is the correct method for negotiating such a grade?

Simply to supplement the brakes with the resistance offered by the engine while it is driven by the car, placing the transmission in gear. The engine is thus transformed from a producer of power to an absorber of power.

Using the motor in this way for braking purposes has become recognized by engineers as the technically correct procedure, and the application of the practice is not limited to automobiles. On electrically-driven trains of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad, for example, on down grades the motor is so used for braking. In this case it has an added advantage in that the motor becomes a dynamo, and the power absorbed is transformed into electricity and put back into the line.

In using the automobile engine for braking, it should be clear that the faster the engine is driven in relation to the speed of the car, the greater will be the resistance offered. On gradual inclines, the resistance offered by the engine when the transmission is in high gear, or direct drive, may be sufficient. On steeper grades it is best to shift into intermediate gear before beginning the descent. On very steep mountain grades, on which one should proceed slowly, it is advisable to shift even into low gear.

In using the engine to assist the brakes, it is natural to think that it will help still further to switch off the ignition. Inconsistent as the statement may seem, this should not be done. Even when the throttle is "closed," enough fuel is admitted to the cylinders to drive the engine at a speed of about 300 revolutions per minute. If this fuel is not burned, it condenses on the cylinder wall and washes off the oil by which the pistons are lubricated. At the same time, the power developed by the burning of this small amount of fuel is insignificant compared with the power absorbed. Switching off the ignition when coasting, with the car driving the engine, does not appreciably increase the resistance, and is almost sure to have injurious results, even though the throttle may be "closed."

In climbing hills, good driving, so far as the car is concerned, is wholly a matter of engine control. There is always a thrill of achievement in taking a difficult hill "in high." Sometimes this is a mark of good driving; sometimes otherwise. There is a tendency among American drivers to add shifting gears. European drivers, who shift gears on what we would call the "lightest pretext," find it hard to understand this American attitude.

Some of the highest grade multi-cylinder engines have a great reserve power and can exert an enormous amount of it without detriment. Even in some of the lighter cars, in which there is a favorable power to weight ratio, good results are also obtained. However, in places where deep sand, mud or steep up-grades make excessive demands upon any engine driven in high gear, waiting too long, and allowing the car to lose its momentum before shifting gears may make it necessary to resort to low instead of second gear.

If drivers will learn these two lessons about driving in hilly regions, to use the engine for braking purposes but not to turn off the switch, and to sense the moment at which to shift into lower gears when climbing, they will be rewarded by better braking service with fewer brake adjustments, and longer life with better performance from the engine.

This is a question always open to discussion. But after all the battery that gives the most service for the least money is the best.

SMUGGLING HUMANS INTO AMERICA.

Facts About a Big Organisation.

The story of Cuba's smuggled aliens in pictures. Upper left is Animas street in Havana where headquarters of the smuggling gang is located. On the right are aliens earning their livelihood until it is their turn to be smuggled into the United States. Below are shown schooners of the type used to smuggle rum and aliens.

Thousands of those whom the are waiting their turn to penetrate the immigration barrier that has its agents in United States designate as undesirable aliens, crowd the little has been erected around the every port in Europe and restaurants and hotels of the United States. From every land whose representatives may be poorer quarter of Havana. They and crime they come. found in Hamburg, Marseilles.

Naples, Constantinople, Danzig, Hongkong, and elsewhere. To those barred from America by the quota law, they make their appeal. For 10,000 francs they offer to put them ashore in the United States. The aliens are brought to Havana. There they are put in the slums, surrounded on every side by the underworld and its rapacious hunters, who soon rob them of the few pennies that they may have left.

Many are compelled to go into the streets, peddling small articles from pushcarts, in order to make a living while waiting for their "Great Day."

The head of the organization is said to be a French-Cuban. He maintains his own police force who guard him and his haunts.

The day arrives when his agents report a "clear coast" somewhere in Florida, generally around Tampa. A dozen or so Ford's, each driven by one of his "police," draw up to the various hotels in the slums where his victims are quartered, and those who have been separated from their last cent are loaded into the cars, five or six to each. Quickly under the cover of darkness they are whisked to one of his schooners, of which he has more than a dozen engaged in the smuggling of liquor and immigrants. There they are placed on board to huddle on the deck for the run to the coast of the promised land, where they are dumped ashore at night.

Then they are smuggled in other autos to some inland town whence they are shipped to their friends, if they are so lucky as to have any. The others, less fortunate, are farmed out as peon labour, by the agents of the organization. The profit of the smuggling gang run about $350 a head. The average number of aliens landed monthly on the American coast is 700. Many of those so landed are caught, and, penniless, are deported to their homeland, there to live or starve. But their fate does not act as a deterrent on those others who hunger for a land of peace and freedom.

Eric Thomas, Portobello, performed up to his private swimming reputation at Dundee when he put up a new record of 61 seconds for the 100 yards Scottish junior championship, and beat the holder, Dick Chatfield, of Glasgow. The Watson's school boy is likely to beat his new record when he alters his arm action. He swims much better in salt water.

Regarding a report that he wished to return to the ring again, Joe Beckett, the ex-heavy-weight champion of Great Britain, said recently:—"When I announced that I had retired last year I did think of retiring for good, but time drags on my hands, so, with nothing to do, I thought of having another fight with anyone who came for me. However, from what I can see of the game at present, there is not much inducement for me to take it on again."

Bill Collier, the popular half back of Raith Rovers, and internationalist, has just given his signature to Sheffield Wednesday. This is the second of Raith's prominent players of two or three seasons past to sever connection with the club, Archibald having gone to Third Lanark recently. No information is forthcoming yet regarding Brown or Inglis, who are also on the open to transfer list.

NEW YORK'S BEST 1923 BUILDING. Prize Awarded to Cotton Exchange.

First prize for the best building erected in New York during the year 1923 has just been awarded to the New York Cotton Exchange building. The award is made annually by the Downtown League of New York City. Mr. Donn Barber, New York, is the architect who designed the building, the beauty of which has caused wide comment among architects and builders throughout America and Europe. The prize winning structure is beautifully faced with Indiana limestone. This stone from the hills of the Hoosier state has entered into innumerable awards this year, and recently was chosen as the building material for the new Tribune Tower in Chicago, the architectural design for which brought prizes of $100,000.

J. D. Sanderson (Loretto), who was a competitor in the boys golf championship, is a nephew of Councillor David Sanderson, Melrose, and the son of an old Melrose cricketer and football player.

Of the Border clubs, Peebles Rovers, Vale of Leithen, and Berwick Rangers still remain in the Scottish Qualifying competition. With the clashing of Berwick Rangers and Peebles Rovers it is possible for only two to go forward to the third round.

St. Johnstone's present enclosure at the Recreation Ground has outlived its usefulness, and it was rather a tight squeeze getting 12,000 people in to see the "Hibernians" match. The new ground at Dunkeld Road is expected to be ready about the New Year time.

Jimmy O'Donnell, a Stockport feather-weight boxer, whose followers are said to believe him capable of relieving George M. Kozio of the Lonsdale belt, made an impressive first appearance at The Ring recently when he beat Walter Wright, of Huddersfield, in a fifteen round contest.

RADIO NOTES AND NEWS.

Simple Two-Tube Set that Gets Distance.

Alleged long distance records of reception with only one tube, such as Flewelling's from Chicago to Fiddler, England, may be only radio freaks, but there are two-tube circuits that actually prove consistent long distance gettars.

Such a circuit is the one to be described to-day. It is the circuit used by a fan in Havana, Cuba, who has been listening in on the high-powered broadcasting stations in America with ease, despite the heavy static prevailing most of the year in that area.

It is simply designed and easy to construct. Two honeycomb coils make the antenna inductance. The first tube is used as a stage of radio frequency amplification, and the second is the detector provided with a lead-back arrangement to the antenna.

unit only. Then, instead of a 20-ohm rheostat for the detector, a 6-ohm rheostat should be substituted.

MARS TEST.

Incident to Science.

The world's mysteries gradually are being eliminated from the possibilities of radio.

And after all have been tried and tested, this new science will have finally grown out of its swaddling clothes and taken its place with the other staid sciences of the earth.

The recent Mars episode is merely an indication of the initiation stage in which the science of wireless communication must still be classed. Its limitations have not yet been mapped out. It is being given the widest possible range of

HOOK-UP DIAGRAM OF SMALL DISTANCE "GETTER."

The aerial should be about 65 feet long and about 35 feet high for best reception with the honeycomb coils provided. However, a total length of 100 feet for antenna and lead-in is the essential to remember.

The parts for this set are:

1.1, one 35-turn honeycomb coil;
1.2, one 75-turn honeycomb coil;
C1, one 0.005 variable condenser;
R1 and R2, two 20-ohm rheostats.

Two tube sockets.

C2, one 9 to 13 plate vernier variable condenser.

T, one radio frequency transformer.

C3, one .0022 mfd. by-pass condenser.

C4, one grid leak, varying from 114 to 3 megohms, and condenser, .00025 mfd.

Bus wire for connections.

The tubes for this set are both of the 11V201-A, or the C301-A type. For these the B battery has a voltage of 45 volts.

But if a 200-tube is used for the detector, proper connections would have to be made to tap the voltage off at 22½ volts for this study, so nothing outside the knowledge of science may be overlooked.

This is why the effort to listen to Mars should not be looked upon as an absurdity. It was a serious attempt to give two sciences—radio and astronomy—a good chance to show their potentialities. That it failed merely added another link to the chain that bounds each of them.

Scientists do such "foolish" things almost every day. Ordinarily they are tried in secret, in the laboratory, where only those who understand may learn of them. The Mars experiment had to be undertaken more publicly because of its prodigious proportions.

That it seemed to have failed merely settles one mystery so far as radio is concerned.

Yet to many experimenters, the Mars test wasn't a failure, but an additional proof to establish their belief that no human habitation exists on Mars. Astronomically, to these men, the radio test was a success.

YOUNG ANNOUNCER.

Olivia Erbsstein is only 10, yet she is on the air almost every night, telling bed-time stories through the microphone at WTAS, Elgin, Ill. The station is owned by her father, Charles E. Erbsstein, famous Chicago lawyer, and it is named "Villa Olivia," after the girl. Olivia also acts as an announcer at times.

With the Mars question practically settled radio must show its possibilities in other scientific directions. In some persons' minds there is the obsession that this science has much to do with the peculiar weather we have had this year.

It's absurd, say others. Yet to the real scientist, nothing unproved is absurd. And so the weather changes and their relation to radio may be the subject of sincere study.

The bowels of the earth furnish another mystery for us to unravel. Radio is being commandeered to do its part towards fathoming it.

Some progress has already been made in this direction. Instruments have been designed, and are already in use, that actually discover minerals and other substances underground. Their range isn't far, but development of the designs may increase their possibilities until regions heretofore untouched by man may be revealed.

This isn't absurd. It is highly possible.

Radio may help solve its own mysteries, too, and there are many of these. What it is, how it operates, its possibilities and promises, are still to be revealed to us.

We shall know most of these answers only after scientists have established their certainty. It is a better way, for ridicule is no help to a new science.

BRITISH AMATEURS.

Protest Against Restrictions.

Amateurs of Great Britain are beginning an organized protest against the limitations of the Government against amateur transmission.

The specific limitation to which they object is the ruling that amateur messages shall be transmitted only to stations in the British Isles that are actually taking part in the experiments conducted by the amateur transmitting.

The result is such strict enforcement has been placed on this provision, that amateurs find themselves unable to try long distance transmission on the low wavelengths accorded them. Trans-Atlantic transmission is practically out of the question, and exchange of messages even with French and other European operators is outside of their bounds.

Feeling has begun to run so high that there is serious talk of a concerted campaign which may bring about revocation of the objectionable ruling.

SIGNALS CCME AND GO.

Transmitter and Five Receivers on Same Aerial.

Washington: Five receiving sets and a transmitter have been worked successfully at the same time on board the same ship!

This remarkable achievement was accomplished recently in tests conducted on a U. S. battleship off the coast of Virginia. At this time communication was established with stations in San Francisco and San Diego, Calif., with the ship's transmitter and five receiving sets working at the same time.

Different wavelengths were used in transmission and in each from of reception, although the aerial did duty for both sending and receiving.

The instrument that made this achievement possible was a specially constructed electron tube transmitter of 10-kilowatt power, which emits a pure wave, and a recent invention that makes multiple reception possible on the same antenna.

BANKERS MAY HELP RADIO.

Financier Sees Utility in Future.

New York: European and American financiers are being attracted by radio.

More than a dozen bankers from this country and across the sea were expected to attend the first Radio World's Fair held in New York September 22 to 28, and from this visit begin establishing the new science on a permanent business basis.

According to one of these bankers, in this city, radio will soon be considered one of the most important public service utilities of all countries.

"I fully expect to see several of our biggest railroad, steamship, electric, coal and oil magnates take an active interest in the development of radio in all its branches during the coming year," he says.

"I am firmly convinced that radio will, in the very near future, furnish cheaper light, heat and power as well as be the means of trans-oceanic communication at a cost even lower than our present rate of postage."

Radio investors and manufacturers, who are now handicapped in their work due to lack of capital, expect considerable financial help following the world's fair.

In this smartly tailored frock and suit the value of many buttons in many colours is expressed. On the suit the buttons are deep blue the exact shade of the wool repp of which the suit is made. A more elaborate idea is worked into the frock which is of a nigger repp and the buttons used are in varying shades of green.

TO-DAY'S BEAUTY NOTE.

If your hair is dull and faded-looking or you have been tempted to use proxide to "brighten it," and it has assumed that "burnt-straw" look, which peroxidized hair so often has, try what a hot oil shampoo will do for you. Loosen the hair and massage the scalp till it feels warm and glowing, and heat a little pure oil of sweet almonds or pure olive oil, by placing the bottle in a bowl of hot (not boiling) water. Then rub the warm oil well into the roots and over the hair. Wrap the head in a soft towel and leave for an hour. Then shampoo in the usual way, and you will be surprised at the improvement in the appearance of your hair.

THREE-PIECE SUIT.

Here's the three-piece suit as Paris sees it. A sleeveless frock of black crepe de chine with trimming of white embroidery, and a short, straight coat similarly adorned. It is recommended for

AUTUMN FASHIONS BRING NEW GESTURES.

The wrap-around coat is still fashionable, but in general the coats do not wrap round so far as they did last season, and often they fasten with buttons in front, totally eliminating the gesture, so characteristic up to the present, of holding a coat shut with the left elbow.

The new silhouette is straighter than ever. Nothing that breaks the long flow of the figure is permitted. The sheath gown is the type chosen in preference to others, but, as usual, the cleverness of the designer has found thousands of different ways of giving variety while keeping to the general outline decided on as fashionable.

As to the new skirt-length different dress-makers have different opinions. Some make the skirts clear the floor by a good seventeen inches, some make their skirts only twelve inches off the ground, while others strike a medium between these two lengths. The best rule, after all, about skirts is to make them the length that is most becoming to your figure and your legs, keeping in mind that skirts are moderately short. Evening and afternoon gowns are, of course, often much longer than the morning frocks and the suits, and here again the length worn by each woman is a matter for her own individual preferences and proportions.

Fuller skirts, still straight in line, are frequently seen, one designer shows short skirts and practically no tight skirts. Some of her models show skirts with a group of wide, flat pleats placed at the left side, while the rest of the skirt is quite plain. Other fashion creators show two side panels of pleating; still others use a box pleated front or back to a skirt to give the practical width and note of individuality as well.

Waistlines, while not used on the typical silhouette, appear marked low on the hips in many of the autumn collections.

THE IMPORTANCE OF CONFIDENCE.

No one can say that the importance of self-confidence is not recognised to-day. Elaborate systems are devised as a means of obtaining it; everyone, everywhere, seems ready to say to us "Think well of yourself. People accept your own estimate of yourself. Let it not be a low one," and so on.

This is one of those halfway truths which sometimes lead to disastrous results. A measure of self-confidence is an essential part of our equipment. But when the measure over-runs, giving a disproportionate view of the importance of self, the days of our success with intelligent people are numbered. We shall still be able to impress fools, and, after all, the ability is not to be scorned from any but ethical standpoints.

To make a true success of life however, we need the respect of the sensible people with whom we come in contact. Nervousness nearly always fails to win respect, though it may win compassion and understanding from the intuitive and the not too frightfully busy. Nine times out of ten it is intensely irritating. Nervousness cannot say what has to be said with any clearness; it knows not how to get into a room or out of it; it wastes time and mental energy.

But the worst remains to be said. Nervousness annoys people because it implies a doubt of their courtesy or kindness. Most men and women, even in this harassed and imperfect world, are prepared to be considerate and helpful. State your business briefly and with confidence, and you will receive the attention you desire. But if you look frightened you may end by being frightened indeed, for human beings, like dogs, are inclined to snap and growl at those who fear them, i.e. think badly of them.

Assume that you are going to be well treated and your assumption will generally be justified. But the confidence must not be only in yourself. You must have confidence in others. Self-confidence acts as a briber, but confidence acts like a charm.

BEAUTIFUL BLANKETS.

Coloured blankets have long played their part in the colour schemes of beautiful bedrooms. The newest coloured blankets have an all-over design in several pale hues in combination, such as blue, mauve and pink, or lemon, blue and mauve the colours gently merging into each other with a clouded effect rather like chine ribbon. These coloured blankets do not yellow in the wash.

CIRCULAR LINE.

This three-quarter length coat may be worn with a white or black outfit with equal distinction. It is made of white flannel printed in black. The circular line of the coat is a new departure.

THE TUNIC BLOUSE.

The long tunic-blouse is one of the ways employed for varying the outline silhouette. Often the blouse, which will be covered by a three-quarter or full-length coat, will be of a brilliant colour, so that a suit which is sober in tones will become riotously gay once the coat is removed. Bright crepes, satins, gorgeous lame brocades and beaded materials are all used to make these long "blouses" which "finish" a suit.

One of the great advantages of these tunics is the variety of cloths that they make possible at relatively small expense. Suppose that you get a suit of neutral tone. The bright-coloured tunic may be red (and it is more than likely, to be red, I may add), but this shade being considered a little brilliant for some occasions, you may have another tunic made to match the colour of your suit, and enlivened with a scrap of brilliant embroidery. Then you can have a white tunic, or an ivory white one (which is much smarter this autumn), or an Empire green tunic, or a royal blue one, or any other colour provided that it harmonises with the colour of your suit and with your complexion.

A LINGERIE STRAP HINT.

Many devices are sold and many tips have been given on the keeping in place of unruly lingerie straps, but quite the simplest and cheapest idea is to sew to the shoulder seams of the dress a fair-sized gilt safety pin. Fix it a little way from the neck line and sew down only the clip side of the pin. The straps of the lingerie are then passed through and the pin fastened. The ribbons go through without piercing and consequently give with the movements of the wearer and do not tear.

"The best gowned and most attractive women are those who study and follow closely their own type," said a well known couturier. "But some women know herself but at first it is well do not know themselves. If they did, they would dress differently. If they are at all observing and sincerely want to know how they look, I advise them to go to the cinema and keep on going until they see an actress that is their own type. The two women may not look alike but the similarity in type will be unmistakable. When a woman has discovered the cinema actress who is her own type, let her copy the general style of her gowns, her way of wearing her hair, even her shoes and hosiery. She can vary this after she comes to know herself but at first it is well to copy. If the actress wears her hair high, her follower must not wear hers low. If she wears trailing chiffons and soft silks, the other must not affect starched linens and stiff brocades. Her sheer silk hose can be copied in silk-and-fibre, but must not be replaced with sports stockings. If her shoes are high heeled and short-vamped, no thick-soled little brogans can tramp in their footsteps.

NOTES FROM PARIS.

The smartest slippers have the straight, high Spanish heel. For street wear the medium Cuban leads, though there are many flat heeled models.

Though there are many beltless gowns, here is a great interest in belts and sashes and they range from the narrow belt of leather to the wide sash with the large cut graceful bow.

Collars and cuffs of crepe de chine in bright colours are worn with the plaid one-piece frocks.

To have a cape to match your tailored suit is one of the latest dictates of fashion.

Shimmering tissues headed with rhinestones or coloured beads are employed for the most gorgeous of summer evening wraps.

Suede is very important this season, both in millinery and for coats and trimmings. Suede coats, fur trimmed, are preferred by many to the all fur garment.

Long ends of velvet white ribbon, fall from a corsage or small white flowers that are the only trimming on a black chiffon gown.

Very long and finely beaded bags mounted on gold or silver frames are being carried by the very smartest women.

Skunk fur is very much in demand for collars and cuffs on winter coats. It is dyed particularly well this season.

Knife-pleated ruffles are seen at the bottom of many of the newest gowns. Some are a foot or more wide, others are narrower and two or three ruffles are used.

Striped handkerchiefs, in green, gette orange and in orange and black, are being worn.

A smart dancing frock of white satin has skirt and a choux of it at the waistline. Coral bracelets and a necklace of the same stones are a part of the costume.

SIMPLY CUT.

This gown is elaborate in effect but very simple as to cut. A wide border of beading outlines the neck and forms the sleeves and the pockets and bands of velvet trim the over-skirt and form the under tunic. The material is white, crepe, the velvet bands are black and the beading is gold.

ART MUST REINFORCE NATURE TO MAKE WOMAN BEAUTIFUL.

Trend of modern beauty culture is toward making a woman look natural, according to Emily Lloyd beauty expert of Chicago.

"A woman is not beautiful if she is not natural," Miss Lloyd said. "But no woman looks natural with a bad skin, neglected hair, and rough uncareful hands and nails. Neither is grey hair natural. It takes a little art to make a woman look her loveliest. Eyes with colourless scanty lashes fade away into obscurity, and brighten naturally and charmingly when the lashes are skilfully darkened. Bright, wavy hair is a natural frame for a pretty face. Pure cream and facial masvelvety. Powder of a texture that the skin will accept and of a shade that will blend with the natural colouring adds to the appearance of any woman. Most women look careless and ungroomed without it. Pale lips and cheeks are nothing but flying signals of ill-health. Any lip stick and carefully chosen rouge. "But worse than no powder, pencil, lip stick or rouge, is the careless and obvious use of make up. The art of make-up and the building up of a coiffure to suit the face are things every woman must learn, and she must learn them from an artist. Therefore 1st Skeet: Watcha hangin' round this bath house for?

2nd Skeet: There's a fellow comin' out soon in an abbreviated bathing suit, an' he tried to slap me last night!

Salesman: "Madam, you will sink nearly out of sight in the luxurious cushions in this new car."

Lady (decisively): "No; when I ride in a new car I want to be plainly visible."

The Dean of Chester is responsible for the following story, which illustrates the advantages of compression in speech. A little friend of his had been asked to tell the story of Elisha, and her reply was, "Elisha had a bear, and the children mocked him, and he said: 'If you mock me I will eat my heart on you, and he did, and it did.'"

An old gentleman was recently travelling by rail, and opposite him sat a youth, with remarkably long legs, which he was very particular about digging into the other person's knees.

On the arrival of the train at a big station the long-legged youth observed to his neighbour:

"I think I shall get out and stretch my legs a little."

"For goodness sake, mon, dinna do that!" said the old gentleman, "for I'm sure they're over long by a great deal already."

D'Auber—"This is the landscape I wanted you to suggest a title for."

Crittook—"H'm! rather impressionistic. Why not call it 'Home'?"

"Home?" Why?"

"Because there's no place like it."

A superior kind of lady inquired in a chemist's the price of brimstone. Upon being informed, she replied that she knew where she could get it cheaper.

"If it's cheapness you want," replied the assistant, "and I wasn't afraid of getting sacked, I could jolly soon tell you where you could get it for nothing."

FORTHCOMING DINNER.

The Committee of the motor cycle section of the H. K. A. A. propose holding a dinner at the Hongkong Hotel at which the Harley Davidson Cup will be presented to the winner of the recent speed judging contest. The function will also serve as an opportunity to place before members suggestions for future trials and competitions.

As we pointed out last week, the large number of motor cyclists in Hongkong should be able to finance successfully many interesting and entertaining competitions, but the committee must be given wholehearted support.

Members who wish to be present at the dinner (which will be held in about two weeks time) should send their names immediately to Mr. J. Smith, c/o the Kowloon-Canton Railway. Every member may invite one friend.

TOLL OF RAILWAY CROSSINGS.

ILLUMINATING FIGURES FROM U.S.

The careful crossing campaign was inaugurated three years ago by the American Railway Association. In 1919, when the necessity for concentrated action against grade crossing accidents finally became apparent and was acted on accordingly, there were 1233 fatalities of this nature, or 12.54 per cent. of all automobile fatalities. The number was reduced one per cent each year until 1923, when the number was almost 11 per cent. of all automobile fatalities, an increase of two per cent. over the year previous.

The following statistics are of interest.

Year	Total auto fatalities at grade crossings	Auto fatalities grade crossings
1917	9,184	1,083
1918	9,672	1,131
1919	9,827	1,232
1920	11,353	1,273
1921	12,500	1,262
1922	14,000	1,359
1923	16,000	1,759

The task of prevention was considered an educational one. A plan was proposed to call attention to crossing accidents by means of posters, literature and addresses. Practically all the Class 1 railroads in the United States entered vigorously into the spirit of the work, and, as a result, in the summer of 1922 more than 1,000,000 posters were printed by the railroads and displayed.

Several million stickers, miniatures of the posters, were used, thousands of lantern slides were exhibited in motion picture houses, and, in railroad towns and cities, careful crossing clubs, pledged to careful crossing, were organized.

Last year the railroads again prosecuted their activities in a similar manner. The 1924 careful crossing poster of the American Railway Association was selected from nearly 5000 posters which were submitted by artists in all parts of the country.

This year's poster will be displayed freely. The sticker will be employed again and speakers will be suggested for meetings of Rotary, Lion, Kiwanis and similar clubs. Monthly meetings of railroad employees will be held and owners of commercial cars will be asked to pledge their support of the campaign.

The universality of the motor is strikingly apparent. The need of uniform and applicable laws of conduct at crossings is more than desirable.

EYES MEAN EVERYTHING.

A driver of a car should always keep his eyes straight ahead when driving forward, and look back when in reverse. He should be on the constant lookout for traffic coming from side streets, which may block his path. When making a turn, his eyes should be kept on the course the car will follow.

ONE OF THE WORLD'S GREATEST SALESROOMS

The salesroom of the New York Branch of the Buick Motor Company at 55th Street and Broadway, New York, sells and delivers more cars and more dollars worth of automobiles than any other salesroom in the world. And its sales are increasing all the time.

This Buick Branch delivered, during 1923, 24,565 new Buicks, representing a cash value of $39,591,918. In 1924, it is expected that about 30,000 cars will be delivered, a business of over $50,000,000. For if any of the great New York department stores will do as great a volume of business.

From August 1, 1923, to May 18, 1924, deliveries of this Branch amounted to 20,139 Buicks as compared with 16,293, deliveries for the same period the preceding year. This represents an increase of 3.84 cars, or a 23.4% gain. Sales of this Branch for the first two weeks of May 1924, were 1,231 Buicks as compared with 945 sold in the same period last year. This is an increase of over 30%. It is no wonder that a record breaking volume of business is expected for the new season.

Because the value of Buick output has each year been greater than that of any other exhibitor, Buick has held first place in every National Automobile Show in the United States during the last six years. In 1923, Buick sold 218,516 motor cars, representing a value of $302,752,950 not including war tax or freight. In the New York district alone, 12.5/10% of the 88,026 new cars sold in 1923 were Buicks.

BODY NOISES.

A body resting on the frame unevenly will in most instances cause a cracking sound. By placing strips of leather between the body and frame it often overcomes this noise.

BUMPS ON TAXI.

Chicago is considering passage of an ordinance compelling the attachment of bumpers on all taxis. This followed a recent accident in which a child was killed by a taxi.

Grasp it and oil, rubbed on exposed metal surfaces, will keep them from rusting.

Of nearly 800,000 motorcycles in the world, there are only 200,000 in America.

ANNOUNCEMENT!

GOODYEAR SUPERTWIST

BALLOON TYRES

Now! Balloon Tyres of super-quality.
Goodyear—built of Supertwist.
Supertwist—is the new and highly elastic cord material, perfected by Goodyear especially for balloon tyres.

It makes the balloon tyre practical, for it has the ability to withstand the continuous flexing required of balloon tyres, and victoriously resist severe road-shocks.

This remarkable new cord material with 50 per cent. greater elasticity than any material ever used before, practically doubles the tyre life.

Supertwist—is used only by Goodyear. It is built into Goodyear Balloon Tyres of both types—to fit new small diameter wheels—and to fit nearly all the cars now in use without change.

SPECIAL DODGE BROTHERS MOTOR CARS

IN FOUR TYPES

Four special types have recently been added to Dodge Brothers standard line of motor cars—A Touring Car, a Roadster, a Type-A Sedan, and a 4-Passenger Coupe.
These types have been created for that substantial group of motorists who favor individuality in motor car appointment and design.
In fundamental construction they are identical with Dodge Brothers standard product. Their accentuated smartness, however, is strikingly obvious in many elaborations of equipment and refinements of detail.
Special 6-ply, balloon-type tyres, nickel-trimmed radiator wheel on touring car and roadster (optional on closed types) front and rear bumpers, motorometer with look, special blue leather upholstery (for touring car and roadster special body striping, rear view mirror, automatic windshield wiper, scuff plates, cowl lights and steel disc wheels constitute the more important items of special equipment.

This five-passenger special type Dodge Brothers Touring Car was given an actual road test in Hongkong—the result being 23-3/4 miles on one Imperial gallon of Texaco gasoline.

ACROSS THE EASTERN CARPATHIANS.

HUMOURS OF A MOTOR TOUR.

(BY A "TIMES" CORRESPONDENT.)

The Rumanians, it is said, like to be considered the direct descendants of the Romans. But they are no road-makers. Ploesti, one of the largest towns in Rumania, possesses, for example, but one properly paved "boulevard," and this is only about a kilometre in length. Otherwise the devious and dirty streets of this centre of the great Rumanian oil industry consist of an irregular but continuous series of ruts, potholes, loose stones, dust, and pools of water.

British motor-vehicle manufacturers, if they wish to do business in this part of the world, cannot bear in mind too carefully that the roads are most destructive to springs and tyres, and will subject both chassis and body-work to the severest strains. The motorist himself will need no reminder. He will have been impressed sorely with the fact, even in the best-sprung and upholstered car. Yet an automobile tour from Ploesti to the Eastern Carpathians offers a wealth of attractive scenery which compensates for every jolt. Even in their squalor, the villages, with their peculiar characteristics, blended of East and West, are most picturesque. Dogs, fowls, geese, and turkeys—even pigs—wander unconcernedly to and fro across the roads, bent on committing suicide, and saved only by the skill of the driver and the effectiveness of the brakes.

The towns are great poultry markets. The trade is in live birds, and an animated traffic it is. If a noisy, crowded, and violent altercation is taking place in the Plaza—or at the street corner, there is no need for alarm. It is probably only an argument about the price of a couple of squeaking chickens. Practically no dead birds are sold, except those that have mistaken the speed and direction of the car.

Of the oilfields, whose derricks dot the hillsides, all that need be said here is that they add nothing to the attractiveness of the scenery. The English tourist misses the hedges and open fences, the front gardens, creeper covered cottages and porches that are such a refreshing feature of his homeland. Instead, he finds that the village dwellings, which are shaped rather like Noah's ark, are, for the most part, set end on to the road. Walls or closely built fences and gates effectively bar the main door of the houses from the public gaze, and make an almost continuous boundary wall along each side of the road. The smaller houses are very primitive in design, being for the most part constructed of light tree trunks, laid horizontally over a foundation of boulders. The cracks are filled in with mud, and the whole is finally covered with plaster. The outer walls are decorated with panels and medallions of varied design, and afterwards painted with dis-temper in different shades of blue, green and grey.

The road ascends past the boulder-strewn beds of streams, and the cool green heights of Sinala, the resort of court and fashion, are soon gained. Then the pass of Tomos is reached. Here there are still half-shattered houses that have been awaiting repair these eight years. Here, also, is that other sad memory of a futile struggle, neat rows of wooden crosses on the hillside by the trees, near the old Hungarian frontier. The car drops down into Brasov, once a thriving industrial town, and now slowly recovering its activity. It attracts many visitors from the sun-baked plains to its invigorating mountain air and wooded terraces.

The next objective is the famous Bran pass, and so to Campulung. The map shows that the road to which we now turn is not "first class." Suddenly we are brought to a standstill amidst heaps of boulders, mounds of loose earth, and piles of stones. The road seems to have vanished. But, in answer to requests for directions, the peasants continue to point to what they evidently consider to be the track. They do not regard it as or even mislead. And so we drive on through the loose earth, then along what resembles the bed of a stream; we cross something like a farmyard, encircle a few trees, and finally emerge upon the highway again.

It is an easy day's run to the sulphur springs of Calimanesti, through flower-strewn valleys, gay with wild violets, campanula, giant foxgloves, and snapdragon. Then, leaving the valley of the Olau, Sibiu, formerly known as Hermannstadt, or Nagy Szeben, lies ahead.

The road almost due west through Fagaras leads again to Brasov, whence a highly attractive but adventurous byway may be followed southwards through the passes of Mount Chela and Mount Suzana—8,000ft. to 10,000 ft. above sea level. Here the narrow road, made, it is said, by the Germans during the war, hugs the mountain sides in a giddy, serpentine course, about 20 hair-pin bends being negotiated in a rise or drop of 3,000ft. Not far from the summit wild raspberries are to be found, large and luscious. A few pairs of hands succeeded in picking about 5lb. in half an hour. Below, the car winds its way downwards through pine and beech, larch and birch, to the safer haven of the valley, and so back through Valeni to Ploesti.

EFFECT OF CANTON TROUBLE.

The fortnightly Price Current and Market Report, published by the Hongkong General Chamber of Commerce states:—

Cotton piece goods and fancy cotton goods.—The market, needless to say, has been adversely affected by the loss of life and incendiary recently perpetrated in Canton and it is to be sincerely hoped that we have seen the last of such vandalism.

Cotton Yarn.—The fighting and subsequent looting and burning in the city of Canton has thoroughly demoralized merchants and no business has been transacted, and although, at the moment the situation is again more normal, dealers are unwilling to do business, fearing a recurrence of further fighting.

Quotations are:—No. 10s $225/-, 230. No. 12s $23/-, 242. No. 16s $240/250. No. 20s $230, 245.

Arrivals 800 bales. Shipment nil. Sales nil.

Unsold stock 4,500 bales. Bargains 2,000 bales.

Woolens.—Owing to the civil fighting and political disturbances in Canton, business is at a standstill. Clearances have fallen off entirely, and goods continue to accumulate.

Raw Cottons.—There is no change to report.

ROUGH SEAS.

B. I. BOAT ARRIVES LATE.

The late arrival of the B. I. s.s. Talma, to-day—she was two days overdue—is explained by the report which was received at the Harbour Office from the Master. Soon after leaving Singapore, on the 16th, she encountered rough seas and there was an exceptionally heavy North East swell. The monsoon strengthened as the vessel proceeded and she was pitching and labouring heavily. Heavy rains were experienced continuously and some anxiety was felt in view of the fact that the vessel was shipping water fore and aft.

Her safe arrival was greeted with relief here.

Metals.—Market stagnant owing to the political situation.

Flour Market Report.—Stock: about 1,700,000. Market: quiet.

Quotations: American Patent $4.00 per sack; American Straight $3.25 per sack; American Cut off $3.25 per sack; Shanghai Flour $2.95 per sack; Australian No. 1 $3.25 per sack; Canadian Cut-off $3.00 per sack.

Window Glass.—Market dull.

Sugar.—Market dull.

Saltpetre.—Market completely paralysed owing to the Canton troubles coupled with heavy fall in Rupee Exchange.

HARVEST FESTIVALS.

By the Rev. G. R. Lindsay, M. A.

Human nature is not as a rule too prone to gratitude. We are all of us more ready to receive than to render thanks. The story in the Gospels of the Ten Lepers, only one of whom returned to give thanks, is a parable of what happens every day. Man is a graceless creature. Perhaps we do not mean to be ungrateful, but self-centredness renders us more conscious of our needs than of our blessings. We find prayer nearer the lips than praise. Harvest Festivals as a service of the Church are of modern origin, and some are saying that they have already had their day. But such a festival serves a noble purpose indeed if it helps to remind us of the good things of life, and that we possess and enjoy nothing but what has been given to us.

A Harvest Festival is primarily a thanksgiving for the fruits of the earth, but these are recognised as symbols of all God's gifts—physical, mental and spiritual, and so, it is not only for sunset and evening star, wayside flower and folds of corn for which we give thanks, but also for the laughter of children, the optimism of youth, the enduring love of parents, the joy of friendship, and for the compensations of life which enable us to bear the hardest lot. For these and much more, there must arise in the most disgruntled feelings of gratitude. The most parting will be ready to sing—

"My God I thank Thee, Who hast made
The earth so bright,
So full of splendour and of Joy,
Beauty and Light,
So many glorious things are here
Noble and right."

Surely if we "should hold our peace the stones would cry out." And, yet again, these gifts symbolise God's best gift. You will remember how Israel in our Lord's day, recalled with pride the gifts in the wilderness of manna, and of water from the rock. "Yes," says Jesus, "but you miss the whole meaning of those blessings if they do not turn your hearts to accept the True Bread and the Living Water."

Every meal is a Sacrament. If over there was a place to give thanks it is at the dining table. As someone has quaintly said, "Let grace never be in disgrace." For in thanking our Heavenly Father for the food we eat, we thank Him for every gift of which it is a symbol.

"Thou didst not spare Thine only Son,
But gav'st Him for a world undone;
And freely with that Blessed One,
Thou givest all."

Remember too, the way you use His gifts is the measure of your thankfulness.

DAY BY DAY.

The arrest of two Chinese occurred in Hainan Street, Shamshui, yesterday. In the possession of both were found loaded revolvers.

Mr. Frank B. Amos, Export Representative of Messrs. Dodge Brothers, arrives in Hongkong to-day on the President Wilson. Mr. Amos is on a round-the-world tour in the interests of the famous Dodge car.

Whilst working on a cargo junk in the harbour yesterday, a coolie had his foot almost sawn off at the ankle by a wire rope which was being unwound from the capstan. He was removed to the Kwong Wah Hospital.

It has since been discovered in connection with the finding of the dead body of a Chinese on the hillside above Shauiwan, that the man died from natural causes, and was not murdered, as was at first thought.

In reporting the case in which the master of the s.s. San Ning was summoned for working cargo on Sunday without a permit, we stated that Mr. A. E. Hall represented defendant, whereas it was Mr. C. A. S. Russ.

In the Government Gazette is set out a list of places and times at which the military authorities will carry out gun practice in the waters of the Colony. All junks, ships, and other vessels are warned to keep clear of the ranges.

Eleven Chinese were brought before the Marine Court this morning for allowing their boats to lie along the Praya wall at 4.30 this morning. They were declared guilty by the Court and fined $5 or an alternative of five days. One only had a permit and was dismissed.

Notice is given in the Government Gazette that it is proposed to make an order for the closing to public traffic of McGregor Street, from Queen's Road East to Cross Street, in connection with a reconstruction scheme involving the widening of Sarnan Street and its extension southwards to Queen's Road East.

His Excellency the Governor has appointed Mr. John Alexander Fraser to be Assistant Head of the Sanitary Department, and Secretary to the Sanitary Board as from the 20th October. Mr. David William Trautman has been appointed Head of the Sanitary Department, during the absence on leave of Mr. N. L. Smith.

One month's hard labour was imposed by Mr. E. Hamilton, at the Kowloon Magistracy, this morning, on a Chinese cook employed at a pawn shop, at No. 2 Canton Road, for the theft from his employers of 39 pieces of clothing, which were stolen on various days during the last six months. It was stated that the clothes were found in defendant's box.

SUNDAY CARGO.

SAN NING CASE DISMISSED.

The case against the master of the s.s. San Ning for working cargo on Sunday without a permit was dismissed by Lieut. Commr. G. F. Hole, Marine Magistrate, at the Marine Court this morning. The defence brought witnesses to prove that the sacks which were taken from the ship were not cargo.

A runner had bought 12 sacks of peas, according to the evidence, and ordered the salesman to have them taken aboard the San Ning. A truck and coolies were provided by the runner. Once on the ship and prior to delivering the peas, the salesman sought the runner, who had not yet paid for the consignment. He could not be found.

Immediately, therefore, the salesman had the coolies reload the peas on the truck and return them to his shop. He said that they had never been booked as cargo aboard the s.s. San Ning.

Lieut. Commr. Hole said that the evidence produced by the prosecution was not sufficient to substantiate the charge and that he found the defendant "not guilty."

DID NOT LIKE CANING.

The Magistrate (Mr. R. E. Lindsell) this morning inquired of a young defendant in a larceny case, if he relished the beating given him the other day for a similar offence.

The prosecuting police officer said that since that since the last appearance of the defendants in Court, it had been discovered his age was 21 and not 15 as he had said.

His Worship (to the defendant): Are you still 15?

The defendant replied that he did not like the caning he had received the other day, and his Worship then imposed a fine of $20, or 14 days' hard labour in result.

VISION'S VALUE.

Good vision is a commodity you cannot purchase. If your eyesight is not perfect, you should make every effort to improve it. Glasses may be a necessity, but this is a quest on you cannot decide for yourself. The advice of a Skilled Sight-Testing
 Optician is required. Our scientific Eye-Testing is thorough and we can detect the cause of the eye trouble or the slightest defect of vision.

"There's something wrong with my stomach"

When you find yourself saying that—think! Nearly all the serious ills of life start in the stomach and could be prevented if taken in hand in time. A stomach-ache is a warning, and if you wish to avoid such troubles as gastric ulceration and chronic dyspepsia you should take a hint from medical men and try Bisurated Magnesia. Acid causes stomach pain and Bisurated Magnesia neutralises this harmful acid the instant it enters the stomach.
 Bisurated Magnesia is a cure that is good for young and old; always beneficial. Bisurated Magnesia costs very little for powder or tablets at any chemists. The sure cure always has the famous oval
 Bismag Sign on the wrapper.

WHAT TO DO FOR YOUR HAEMORRHOIDS.

Any doctor will tell you that constipation aggravates Piles.
 When the intestines are not working freely and regularly the Piles are torn and irritated afresh every time there is activity and so they cannot heal. This pain and discomfort can be overcome by the occasional use of Pinkettes, the mild little laxatives which act gently and naturally, ensure daily regularity, thus giving the Piles a fair opportunity to dry up and disappear. All chemists sell Pinkettes, or post free, 60 cents the vial, from Dr. Williams'
 Medicine Co., 60 Kiangso Road, Shanghai.
